Why Just Enough?

With returning students, as well as three exchange students, the Class of 1992 entered school in September with a four-year high of fifty-nine seniors. Even though this may be the smallest class ever to go through the Littleton school system, this class has had Just Enough time to have many memory-making experiences.

The year we graduated from Littleton Middle School, the school system drastically changed. Instead of just our class moving to the high school, the sixth and seventh graders and their teachers came with us. This made our class the last to leave the Middle School after eighth grade and the last to enter the high school (now the Junior-Senior High School) as freshmen. We had Just Enough time to mark the end of a tradition and to begin a new one.

Once in the junior-senior high school our class, with the appreciated supervision of Betty Leonard, began working on a project for the Littleton community, The Boardwalk. This vehicle for nature study was designed for the biology department as well as for the general public with hard work and high hopes for the future. Although the entire class was not able to participate, a select few were Just lucky Enough to appear on Good Morning America to talk about this undertaking.

During sophomore year, this class came together with Just Enough enthusiasm to win Spirit Week. Junior year, however, the spirit we were able to summon wasn't quite as focused because we were only able to win 10 points (but this was Just Enough for us)!!

Through all our high school years our advisors helped us organize fundraisers for those all-important functions, the Junior Prom, the Senior Cotillion, and the Senior class trip. These fundraisers were More Than Enough to drive us all crazy. After candy sales, car washes, and haunted houses, we were able to scrape together not only enough money to get us through, but enough fun and memories to last us a lifetime.

Now our high school years are over. Looking back, we realize that our class spent Just Enough time together to become a strong team. We also know that Littleton Junior-Senior High School has given us more than Just Enough experience to be able to handle whatever lies ahead.

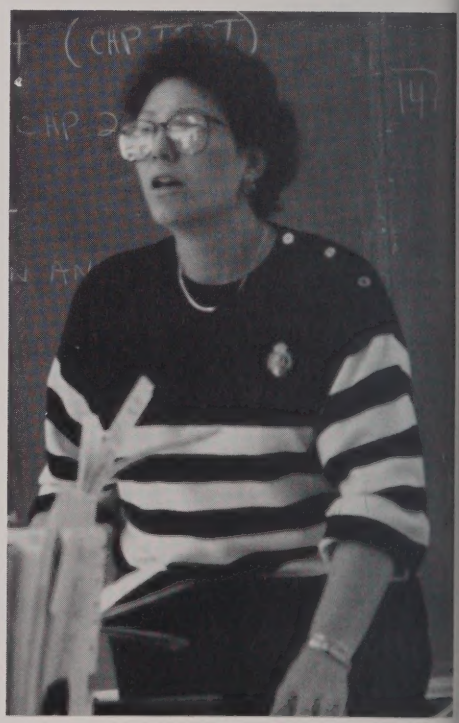
Dedication

The class of 1992 wishes to dedicate this year's yearbook to our tireless class advisors who have, through their own blood, sweat, and tears, helped us through some of the greatest times of our Littleton Junior-Senior High School experience. Mrs. Barbara Coburn and Mrs. Jane Granata brought a rare combination of energy and organization to class events which was much appreciated by all those who worked with them.

At our wet and wild car washes, our five-year-old-scaring haunted house, the profitable sub sale, the ecstasy of the prom, the loud and various Spirit Weeks and pep rallies, our advisors together with our class, have proven we have never been afraid to have fun. Thanks again for all you've given us during our brief, but memorable high school years.



Whooo could this be? Mrs. Granata.

The class of 1992 would also like to recognize our former advisor, Mrs. Carol Leaver. With her guidance, we adjusted to our new school environment. By helping us with our Reese's Peanut Butter Cup candy sale, our first fundraiser, she created a secure foundation for our class treasury. Unfortunately, Mrs. Leaver had to leave. We thank her for accepting us as a responsibility and devoting time for our freshman year.

Just Who We Are

The seventh graders were given the chance to become accustomed to the Junior High school environment, and the rest of us enjoyed another day of summer!

In the aftermath of Hurricane Bob, students were bombarded by bees who had lost their homes.

Along with the endless work on the roof, the petroleum stench of melted tar and moldy dampness of freshly cleaned carpets assaulted our autumn air.

For the first time, all seventh graders were assigned in groups to teacher advisors who would help them in their transition from the elementary school.

Twenty boys from the Littleton Junior-Senior High School were chosen to be a part of the Paramount Pictures film, School Ties.

Who would have believed it? Senior hallway was relocated to the traditional seventh-eighth grade hall. We were in Just Enough time again!

Brendon Thompson ('92) is perfectly dressed to match the "Fantasy-Land" theme in the Junior hall.

Spirit Week 1991 was a gleeful release from normal school activities. After shortened classes, students worked together to express themselves in friendly competition. The seventh through twelfth graders decorated halls and battled in tug of war and numerous other events.

Halls were decorated by the students of each class as they strived to make their theme noticeable - and their hall the BEST. The Class of '91 greased up their hall with gas tanks, hub caps, and newspaper to create "Vinny's Garage." On Costume Day the school was full of rag-toting mechanics. The Class of '92 enchanted the school with pillars, giant lollipops, and animals for a "Fantasy Land" theme. Many students even walked down their yellow brick road. Snow White, Mary Mary Quite Contary, and Tweedle-Dum and Tweedle-Dee were some of the costumes worn for Costume Day. By far the most odorous hall belonged to the Class of '93. In keeping with their farm theme, they filled an old wooden wagon with hay. Hillbillies were in abundance on Costume Day. On the lighter side, the Class of '94 transformed the lobby into the three-ring arena of a circus. Jugglers, clowns, and acrobats provided costuming for the freshman entertainers. Finally, the seventh and eighth graders traveled back to Woodstock while they scooted around love beads and peace signs plastered on the walls in their hall. Tie-dye was their favorite costume of the day.

And who were the winners? By dominating the sporting events with wins in softball, capture the flag, tug-of-war, and gatorball, the seniors ('91) were the big winners of Spirit Week. The only sporting event they didn't win was snatched by the junior class - the three legged race - which gave the juniors their only ten points during the whole week. The sophomores won costume day - everyone wore plaid shirts, overalls, and straw hats. Finally, the seventh and eighth graders won color day with overwhelming numbers of them in their colorful tie-dyes.

This week of building class spirit and morale created a good transition to April vacation and the motivation for those final few weeks of the year.

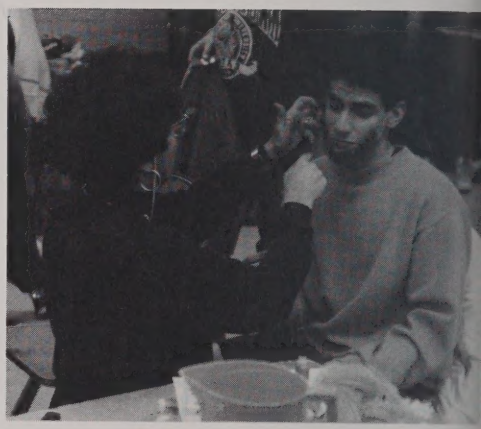
A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum

The cast practices their opening number. Mrs. Granata, director-/make-up artist, puts the finishing touches on Eric Zeissig's beard.



Erronius, played by Scott Slarskey, on one of his many laps around the Seven Hills of Rome.

The eunuchs, A.V. Wright and Ray Galloni, pose with their master, Kevin Masson.

Miles Gloriosus, Craig Wright, ready for battle.

The Geminae twins, Theresa Arrison and Lisa Winner, display their talents for Pseudolus, Chuck Miller (not shown).

"Something for everyone, a comedy tonight!" A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum certainly did have something for everyone. The cast, chorus, directors, and backstage crew did everything possible to enjoy themselves and please the audience.

The play was filled with much that was not soon forgotten. The cast remembers trying not to laugh at all the funny lines when they shouldn't have been laughing. The chorus remembers those long rehearsals playing cards in the back of the auditorium, waiting for a number that they were in. The directors remember the moment they were sure it would all come together - the dress rehearsal! The crew remembers painting plenty of pillars and trying to catch a peek at the show whenever there was a free second.

The audience certainly was thrilled by the performances of all the students. They laughed uncontrollably over A.V. Wright and Ray Galloni's portrayal of eunuchs; they loved the dancing of the courtesans. They sympathized with Senex over his wretched wife, Domina, yet they were intimidated by that paragon of virtue, Miles Gloriosis. They chuckled at the old man Erronius as he ran "seven times around the seven hills of Rome" and got caught up in the plan to get Hero and Philia together. They laughed hysterically over Erik Tratnyek's characterization of Hysterium. Finally, they marveled at Chuck Miller's perfect portrayal of Pseudolus.

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum grabbed the attention of the audience from the very start and held it all the way through. From first rehearsal to final performance all connected with the play were enthralled with laughter. "Here is the moral wrong or right - Tragedy tomorrow, comedy tonight!"

Prom - 1991

"In Your Eyes"

This was it - the night of our Junior Prom, April 26, 1991. It was the night we envisioned as glittering and enchanting, full of smiling eyes and wild grins. And although the prospects of even holding a prom looked gloomy, due to lack of money and people to help, we pulled it all together beautifully.

Weeks of preparation - searching for dresses, renting tuxes, and making arrangements for cars or limos - finally paid off. When we arrived at the Radisson Hotel in Chelmsford and took in the atmosphere, everything looked more beautiful than we had imagined possible. After the mutual admiration of friends, everyone took their seats for dinner. At the center of each table a lovely mauve, ivory, or floral fan sat. Each place setting included the prom souvenir, a glass embellished with a couple dancing and the 1991 prom song title, "In Your Eyes."

Dinner was served: a fruit salad, stuffed chicken, vegetables, rolls, and cheesecake for dessert. Everyone hurried through his or her meal anxiously looking forward to getting out onto the dance floor.

Once the dancing began, stopping was impossible. Who could forget the girls singing along with "Paradise by the Dashboard Light" or the guys singing along with "Just a Gigolo"? Of course, "The Electric Slide" was a great favorite.

Brazen Beauties: Cheryl Hurley, Theresa Egan, and Erin Feeney.

Then came the moment of truth. Who was to be Queen, her court, and the King? First the junior boys and their dates paraded around the floor while the waiters and waitresses, our esteemed judges, noted names. Then the junior Girls and their dates circled the floor with their dates to the song "Brown Eyed Girl." Finally it was announced: Anne Venier was Queen, Grant Duston was King, and Cammie Parker, Jessica Cooney, Pam Allread, and Michelle DiCarlo comprised her court.

The night seemed to slip away in just a few moments, but it was a night to be cherished in our memories. Overall the evening was a celebrated success - good food, great tunes, wonderful friends - what more could we have asked for?

We'd like to thank Mrs. Granata and Mrs. Coburn for helping make the evening such a special time. Also, thanks to the teachers who attended and made the night even more enjoyable.

A beautiful woman walks into LHS. Look at those curves: That face! Is she a super model? No, it's Chris Heiser! And so began Senior Costume Day, 1991. It was a day full of fun and surprises. A shower (Dave Cormier) labored over a test while a singing bush (Grant Duston) came out of the forest to squeeze through our hallways. Humpty Dumpty, (Arne Olsen) came down from his wall to join us for a day. We even got a visit from Diana Ross (Alyce Gowdy-Wright)! We will never forget Jim Sullivan as a pimp, nor will we forget his two foreign prostitutes, Tina Swinkles and Henrietta Fonell. All of the costumes added a special Halloween spirit to our school that was a highlight of the 1991-1992 year.

Roma Soracco defends against a JV player during a practice scrimmage. Interaction between Varsity and JV helped a lot on those long boring bus rides.

Alyce Gowdy-Wright fights against a Maynard player for the ball. Rebounding skills greatly helped the girls' team defend against opponents.

Michelle Toft and Katie Foley guard their basket against Quabbin. JV had a strong season on both offense and defense.

CLUBS & ACTIVITIES

Enough Interest

-Peer Leadership got off to a great start at the retreat. Students challenged themselves on a high rope course and teamwork building activities.

-The P & F wedding went off without a hitch. Well . . . actually, there were two hitches - Cheryl Hurley and Dan Ryan and Teresa Egan and John Geraci.

-Two new clubs were formed this year. In the spring of 1991 the golf club began. They practiced at the Groton country club. The International Club started in the fall of this year headed by Mrs. Claudette Moran. The students shared foreign recipes, had pen pals, and enjoyed some trips. Not Bad!

-The Outdoor club, headed by Mr. Fred Fitzpatrick, went through numerous exciting explorations.

Henrietta "Hank" Fonell from Sweden sits in the cafeteria.

Birgitta Árnadóttir from Iceland enjoys Senior Costume Day Clown-style.

Q: What does America have that your country doesn't

Birgitta Árnadóttir: Iceland had no railroads, chocolate chip cookies, peanutbutter, and we don't have McDonald's or Burger King.

Henrietta Fonell: Junkfood, big cars, Halloween, Thanksgiving, Cotillion, prom, chocolate chip cookies, stupid foreigners, 170,000,000 more people.

Jantiene Swinkles: Drinking age, mountains, snow, cheap clothes, skyscrapers, partylines, big cars, 250,000,000 more people, prom, Cotillion, Halloween, Thanksgiving.

Q: What does your country have that America doesn't?

B.A.: Iceland had glaciers, hot springs, geysers, and volcanoes. We also have 24 hours of daylight in June.

H.F.: Blonds, ice bears, salt licorice, folk dance parties, reindeers.

J.S.: Windmills, tulip fields, wooden shoes, dikes, folk dance parties, fresh bread.

Faculty

Just Teachin'

-To everyone's dismay, one of the beloved Social Studies teachers, Frank Annaldo, retired this year. We'll miss him and all the wonderful things he's done for LJSHS.

-Claudette Moran and Jeannette Clark took many students traveling during April vacation. Mrs. Moran and members of the Spanish classes went to Spain, and Mrs. Clark and the French classes went to France, England and Austria. Unfortunately, this was the last year that Mrs. Clark will be chaperoning a trip abroad.

-Terry Richardson sent eight student art works to an art exhibition at Emerson Umbrella in Concord. Littleton made a very respectable showing, with Erin Feeney as a first place winner.

-The keyboarding curriculum changed when most of the old computers were shipped out and Apple computers took their place.

-Glenn Legault implemented the "25 mile club" for seventh and eighth graders to help promote fitness and health at an early age.

-At long last the boardwalk was completed. Guidance from science teacher Betty Leonard ensured a successful project.

Underclassmen

Enough Is Enough

-As one of their first fundraisers, the Seventh and Eighth grade student council sold jewelry.

-The Freshman class painted faces at the Homecoming football game to show the team Tiger Spirit.

-The Sophomore Carnation Sales made Valentine's day a very special occasion.

-The Junior class started a new tradition this year by holding the first Mr. LHS contest, won, ironically, by senior Grant Dustin.

-Underclassmen will have the benefit of the new satellite dish next year. The installation of the dish will bring "Operation Learnpike," which will allow students to take classes usually not offered at LJSHS.

-The underclassmen can look forward to many more rewarding years at Littleton Jr. Sr. High.

So we've made it through our first year with the "Big Kids". We've had many firsts this year. A lot of them we found ourselves wishing were our lasts. We went to our first dance where we all stood around wondering what to do next, but we are looking forward to many others. We also went to our first Pep Rally, where we sat and watched the cheerleaders cheer for us, but we caught on and we are now having a lot of fun at the rallies. There was the rotating schedule and bells, which took us a while to get used to, and we were on our first seasons of JV and varsity sports. The rest of the school helped us and made a lot of suggestions. We got our first taste of the high school, and we almost choked. Fortunately, everyone was willing to help out.

Overall, we're doing okay, but we've still got a lot to learn as we wait patiently for our chance to be the "Big Kids".

During our years at the junior high school level, we have collected many fond memories for when we become "upperclassmen." At pep rallies we were not "boo-ed" (well, at least not as much). In the fall of our eighth grade year, we, as a class, were proud to send players to varsity teams: two girls each to field and soccer, and one boy each to soccer and football. And although we lost friends to other schools, we also gained them. We very much look forward to events we will participate in such as the cotillions, the prom, Spirit Week, and eventually winning at the pep rally with the loudest chants. We look forward to another great four years at LHS.

Leaving behind the memories of our past, we, the Class of '95, began our journey. We're no longer youngest, certainly not oldest, but we're finally being accepted as part of the senior high. We started out the year strongly, being fortunate enough to have two supportive class advisors Mr. Rocheleau and Mr. Foley. We worked well together at class meetings. At the football games a smiling freshman painted the faces of many Tiger fans. We showed our Christmas spirit at the Bazaar when we raffled off a beautiful quilt, which a group of our class volunteered to make, and sold many crafty homemade concoctions.

Our work became more challenging: oral reports, algebra, geometry, and the world of ?Shakespeare?. We have learned a lot about the rainforests and have plans to plant trees for LHS.

As shown with our unity during Spirit Week, the Class of '95 has an inevitable bond that is continually growing during our journey onward.

We've finally made it through the sophomore year. As of September we'll no longer be suffering from "Jan Brady Middle Kid Syndrome."

The powers that be in school government smiled upon us this year, and we were graced with two most worthy class advisors, Mrs. Chaple and Mrs. Clark. The first official action of the class advisors was to let us know that we had almost no money and how to remedy the situation. We decided (in what was the first successful meeting of the class of '94) to sell candy.

A lot of us have taken Driver's Ed, and most of us have permits or licenses (which is one step closer to freedom).

Most of our teachers have taught us before in previous years which allowed us the ability to get on their nerves more easily (hi Mrs. Coburn).

We must have done something different because we made it through both the football and basketball seasons without having a class member ejected from a home game (being spoken to doesn't count).

Finally, I have to congratulate the the following: the sophomore band members for appearing in the movie, the sports teams for not giving up when everyone else did, Joanna Kotze for winning Homecoming Court, and the class reps and student council members for their work; and much thanks goes out to Mrs. Chaple and Mrs. Clark for not leaving us when they had every right. And on that note, I'm out-Peace.

Well, we finally made it- Upperclassmen! After 3 years at L.H.S. it seems that only yesterday we were the eigth grade babies of the school, trying desperately to avoid the "bigger" kids in the unfamiliar, crowded corridors. Now we're the the Juniors and it feels great. Over the years, our class spirit and unity has expanded gigantically, even if our small class size has diminished a bit in number.

This year, academics are of utmost importance. Seeing our Senior friends apply to and eagerly await acceptance into colleges, we're beginning to worry about our own grades, credit points, and the National Honor Society. Of course, SAT's were a big concern. But all that pales in comparison to getting through our first, dreaded criticals.

Just because the academic pressures are greater this year doesn't mean we have less time for fun. In fact, with so many in the class with new licenses, many have traded in their skateboards for cars. Between being great athletes and the involvement in extracurricular clubs, it's surprising we have time for anything else. But somehow, we find the time for everything from parties and the mall, to movies and skiing.

Of course, trying to make money for this year's prom has been a big problem. A yardsale at the Homecoming football game and a candy sale were big hits. We also made history by holding the first battle of the bands at LHS. The Pep Rallies and Spirit Week showed our class's great spirit. Who, but the Class of 1993, would yell "N-E-S-T-L-E-S" in place of the traditional "V-I-C-T-O-R-Y" cheer? Once more, our creativity and individuality got us through. This is what will make our class special as we look towards our final year in high school.

Just Enough

Mr. Walker allowed the senior class a class trip to Nova Scotia!

Fundraisers such as car washes, sub sales, profit nights at Papa Gino's and Burger King, raffles, and the Haunted House help get the Senior class off the ground.

The senior class beat the rest of the school both in the Homecoming and the Thanksgiving pep rallies.

The senior class play Soft Soap, including practically half of the class, was a tremendous hit.

This yearbook just barely made it after the staff missed every deadline except for the last one!

Here's to the Soccer team of "91".
What a great accomplishment! - A superior one!
You have given us thrills galore.
While some think Soccer is such a bore!

All of you should be very proud.
Therefore, we all cheer aloud.
You did the job when the stakes were down
And gave the opposition reason to frown.

To have such spirit when not expected,
The game of Soccer has been resurrected.
To be played, enjoyed and supported
With skills unmatched, and then reported.
To the Offense: Brandon, Andy, Jon, Jason, Greg & Chris
You kept on target without remiss.
To Todd, Grant, PJ, Brendon & Andrew
Oh, what a display by this crew.
To Mike, Greg, Jim & Dave
What an exhibition you all gave.
And to the Goalie Brian - We sing
What a save. Good job King!
To Emily & Gretchen, had the ball always near,
You cleared the fence without any fear.
And to the Coach - It was a very good year!

Thank you all.
